The Dulles brothers stood ^{at} ~~by~~ their cradle. U.S. Presidents Kennedy and Johnson belonged among their patrons and employers and now ^{it is} ~~Nixon, IS.~~

They have different names. Officially they are known as "Special Forces"--special forces of the U.S. Army. The psychological warfare managers try to make them popular as "Green Berets" based on their brimless head-gear. American peace activists characterize them as dollar SS-troops.

Their "business" is supposed to be carried out under cover. But the track of the Special Forces can be traced easily today.

Organization of Counterrevolutionaries

It began in 1952. U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles exaggerated the policy of "roll back," the roll back of socialism and balancing on the brink of nuclear war. His brother, CIA secret service boss Allan Dulles, began within the framework of this dollar monopoly strategy to build up the Special Forces upon which the secret service exercised the determining influence in succeeding years. ✓

The initial strength of the Green Berets amounted to 1800 men. They
